

October 31, 2023

Good morning, I.S 201! This is Nicole from class 851 here for Talk a Lot Tuesday on behalf of the S.E.A.L. Team.

I'm sure all of you know what today is. It's October 31st, the last day of October... and, of course, Halloween!

There are so many fun activities you can do during Halloween! You can do crafts and decorate your house, both inside and outside, with all the ghostly art you make. Pumpkins, for example, are a distinct element of Halloween. You can carve pumpkins to look like Jack-o-lanterns with your friends and compare to see who made the spookiest face. Pumpkins are also excellent for baking. You can bake some pumpkin-flavored cupcakes or cookies to celebrate a sweeter side of Halloween. If you want something more social and interactive, game nights are the way to go. It could be as simple as a board game or a card game, or you could host your own Murder Mystery or even plant a scary scavenger hunt. Bonus points if the winner gets candy! And, of course, I couldn't leave out the classic: trick or treating. Put on your costumes and travel from house to house with your friends to trick or treat. If you don't feel like participating in this aspect of trick or treating, you could always put out a bowl of candy on your front porch to help out the children in your neighborhood.

Just a little reminder not to eat too much candy or stay up too late, since we still have school tomorrow. Regardless, experience Halloween today to its full potential.

Thank you and have a Trick or Treat Tuesday!
