Good morning I.S.201! It's Sophia from class 731 and I'm here speaking to you on this Words of Wisdom Wednesday, on behalf of the Seal Team!

Has there ever been a time that you felt you couldn't do anything? Have you ever felt that feeling of failure? I'm sure you have, I have too. It's something everyone goes through. You can't possibly think the most famous of people haven't gone through bumps in their career. Because they have several of them in fact. But if they have, how come they became so successful? Their failures don't define what they did and didn't accomplish, it's what they did to continue, to make sure that they accomplished that goal. When they fell, they didn't stay on the ground, they got up, and tried again.

To illustrate this point, let me share a quote from the great inventor Thomas Edison: "I have not failed. I've just found 10,000 ways that won't work." This quote teaches us that failure is simply an opportunity to learn and grow.

Never underestimate the power you hold, don't think low of yourself. You will make mistakes, make bad decisions, but that all needs to happen in the process leading to success. If you want to be a teacher, a doctor, or even the President, you will mess up, and fall down but the more important part is to get back up. Always remember Edison's wise words and keep striving for your goals, no matter the setbacks you encounter.
